The Rev. Chris Galagan

Christ Church, Cody
General Convention: Clergy

Peace and Blessings to you all from Cody, Wyoming! My name is Rev. Chris Galagan, and I am a deacon at Christ Church in Cody. Being a deacon is so much more than reading the gospel and preparing the table for the priest. I see my ministry in a myriad of ways. As a deacon, I strive to bring people together who may not always see eye-to-eye, and encourage them to really get to know one another. One way to do this is by building connections between people and ministry. I was excited to attend General Convention in 2022, with that purpose in mind, but Covid had other plans. We were masked, limited in our contacts with others, and worst of all - no singing! Yet, even through these challenges, the Wyoming delegation made life-long friends. I would love to have the opportunity to experience a somewhat "normal" General Convention, where I could connect with lots of other people across the country, and find ways to bring some of the great things that the Episcopal Church is doing in other places to the great state of Wyoming. I would love your vote as a clergy delegate to the General Convention in 2024, where I will promise to bring the cares of the world to the Episcopal Church in Wyoming.
